

Norman G. Jensen, Inc. International Trade Updates: Mailing List Manager

Norman G. Jensen, Inc. has recently updated the electronic mailing lists for the distribution of our International Trade Updates (ITU) as part of our effort to ensure that importers, carriers, etc. receive current and relevant information about the current importing environment in the most efficient, timely and reliable manner possible. As part of this update, if you were previously subscribed to one or more of our ITU mailing lists, you have automatically been subscribed to all of the new mailing lists included in our Mailing List Manager (MLM).

We understand that there is a wide range of merchandise imported into the United States, and multiple government agencies that regulate their importation. Inevitably, some of the NGJ International Trade Updates distributed by NGJ will contain information that is not relevant to your particular company. For example, if you import lumber, you aren't likely to be interested in information about FDA rules for the importation of food.

The Mailing List Manager on our website gives you the ability to select which information you receive by controlling your mailing list subscriptions. To review or modify your subscriptions, or to unsubscribe, log on to the NGJ Mailing List Manager at <http://www.ngjensen.com/mlm.php> using your e-mail address and password. If you have forgotten your password, use the Forgot Password option to have the system automatically e-mail your password to you.

Receiving the information by e-mail will allow you to utilize the electronic links frequently contained in NGJ ITUs. The links provide access to important documents from government agencies, as well as other relevant information to assist you in understanding the current importing environment.

Previous NGJ International Trade Updates can be viewed on our website at <http://www.ngjensen.com/itu.php>

We appreciate your assistance. Please contact us if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Norman G. Jensen, Inc.
